How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED. As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced. It seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the stomach and bowels.

When the Mind Rests.

In private conversation one day one of Chicago's oldest and most learned physicians gave utterance to the following:

Why is it that when we see a person gazing fixedly for several moments at a certain point on the floor or in the street we say he or she is thinking hard about something? Nine times in ten a person thus engaged—or disengaged—is thinking of nothing. At such times, if you only know it, the mind is napping and there is no thought. Probably one of the oldest fads—and it seems to be nothing more—consists of persons when at such times they are asked what they are doing saying "thinking hard!"

In the large majority of cases when a person is thinking hard or intently the eye roams from one object to another and the hands and feet are moving more or less. The busiest and hardest working brain insists on taking momentary naps several times a day. Just before "dropping off" into one of these naps the mind commands the eye to fix itself upon some object, thus usually insuring the holding of the head and probably every part of the body quiet. Then the mind catches its little nap. These little mind naps or flashes of rest may never be more than twenty seconds long, and yet they have been discovered to do the mind a wonderful amount of good. They never come to the deranged mind, and it has also been discovered that the supposedly sound mind which does not take them is on the verge of insanity.—Exchange.

American Familiarity.

Imagine a man of strong character and sterling worth being constantly subjected to the cheapening process of being called by every man and boy in town Billy.

It is all very well within a circle of relatives, but the promiscuous carrying on of the practice outside of the family is intolerable. After a week at the mountains or seashore a party of young people who have never heard of each other before will call each other by their first names with a reckless disregard for the proprieties, which to a well educated and cultivated person is little short of absolute rudeness.

Particularly does this apply when an ordinary acquaintance insists upon calling a young married woman "Mary" or "Bertha." For a young man to do this at once stamps him as ignorant of good form and guilty of an unpardonable liberty.

Every one who has reached his or her majority is entitled to a courteous form of address. The individual who forgets this is presuming upon the intimacies of childhood, and still continuing to address them as boy and girl is practically an avowed foe to good manners.—Philadelphia Times.

History of a Silver Mine.

There is a silver mine near Sorbad, in Afghan territory, which has a curious history. Three men were sent from that country to Kabul, the residence of the ameer, to be executed for an offense against the state. They told the ameer that if he would let them off they would tell him where he could find abundant supplies of silver. The ameer deferred the execution and sent them under guard to Irbansham, where they went to work digging. They and the men who were put to work with them dug for twenty days, finding nothing. The ameer's officer told them at length that they could dig for seven days more, and if they did not find silver within that time the sentence of death would be carried out. The next day they came to a very rich vein of silver, and now about a hundred men are employed in the mine, which has been visited by an English traveler.—New York Sun.

The Music of Thunder.

The bass of thunder is considerably lower than the lowest sound produced in an orchestra—below the zero of music we call it, at which all positive apprehension of musical sound ceases, and our senses are merely conscious of a roar. In observing the music of thunder our attention, however, may be most profitably directed to the expression rather than to the notes. The musical diminuendo is more perfectly represented by thunder than by any other form of sound in nature. After the first clap is over the ear will pursue with pleasure the rolling away and gradual fainting of the peal, until at immeasurable distance it sinks into silence.—Good Words.

Stock Yards Pride Wounded.

Two men at the stockyards got into a heated discussion the other day over the law of supply and demand, and one of them said:

"There isn't any use in arguing with a man who doesn't understand the elementary principles. You don't even know what a syllogism is."

"I'll bet fifty dollars," replied the other, purple with rage, "that our packing house turns out more cans of 'em in one day than the one you're working in does in a month!"—Chicago Tribune.

Putting Shoes on Pet Dogs.

The latest whim for the owners of dogs is to make them wear shoes in the house for the purpose of protecting the polished floors. They are made of cambric, with leather soles.—New York Sun.

CORN HUSKING FOR LOVE.

A Novel Match in Which a Pretty Girl Was the Prize.

A discussion of corn husking, an ancient custom in general and the vaunted superiority of the old boys over the rising generation led to a most interesting match last week. The scene was laid ten miles north of Crawfordsville, Ind., on the farm of Dr. Wilkes, where it had been announced there would occur a grand husking match, not exactly an old fashioned one, for the corn was still on the stalk.

The young men of that section were out in force to participate or back a favorite, but when the spot was reached it was found that Grant Layton and Charles Parker were the favorites, and all declared that one of them must surely win. As the others did not care to suffer defeat it was mutually agreed to withdraw, and the race was between the favorites.

The young men, who are leaders in the social Four Hundred thereabouts, were raised on adjoining farms and for years a bitter rivalry has existed between them. Grant leads the choir and the singing school, but Charley is generally the last man down at a spelling match. Grant dances divinely and Charley is not to be sneezed at in that line. Besides no dance can be a success without the latter acting as a prompter. Grant can break any colt in Indiana, and Charley is beyond the range of ordinary vision at a shooting match. Both are athletes and both are proud possessors of very well outfitted in the horse and buggy line. In a word, their accomplishments are about equal and their leadership in social circles is undisputed.

But, strange to relate, both have a hankering "for the same"—a bright, black eyed little charmer, the reigning belle of the neighborhood and still in her teens. Heretofore it had been nip and tuck between them, but there seemed to be an under standing between the three that a marked preference would be shown to the winner of the husking match so the boys were only the more anxious to meet on the bank of Dr. Wilkes' forty acre cornfield.

At 7 o'clock the contestants, each accompanied by a wagon, two horses and a driver, entered the arena and a few minutes later time was called. Grant, with much composure, sailed off down the long rows of that big cornfield, husking the golden ears with as great facility as Samson slew the Philistines with the jawbone of an ass. Charley, the champion, was fairly wild and husked as he had never husked before.

At one end of the field the boys always cast their eyes toward a certain spot where stood the little charmer between a father and big brother, but a smile or a nod would send them back to the next row with renewed energy. During the afternoon there was no perceptible advantage. It was what in dice parlance is termed "horse and horse," and money was going up all the while. But length the sun declined to shed more light, and all hands, howling and cheering like mad, gathered to hear the count.

The supreme moment arrived, and the Layton faction fairly split the blue canopy of heaven when the official counter, from the bottom of an inverted sorghum barrel, announced that Grant Layton was the winner, having husked 151 bushels and 68 pounds to Charley Parker's 140 bushels and 48 pounds. To add to the discontent of the Parker faction, Layton also broke the short time record by husking thirty-one ears in one minute and throwing thirty of them in the wagon. When the cheering had subsided and the stakeholder had distributed the cash, the conquering hero was hoisted by some half dozen of his enthusiastic backers and carried to the supper table, the head of which, as a seat of honor, had been reserved for the winner. The tired but happy husker bore the tremendous honors very modestly, while the pair of black eyes that had acted as the great incentive and were now sparkling with no less intensity than the one hovered about that end of the table and loaded it with all the delicacies that the house afforded. A free and easy, good old fashioned dance followed, in which Layton, who was too weary to navigate, did not participate. Neither did "stakes," but as they sat there smiling and happy and the center of attraction, there was more than one who "loved they would make a spanky team."

Parker, the vanquished, bore his defeat with good grace and received many compliments on the good fight he had made, even though victory had not perched upon his banner.—Chicago Herald.

Two Kansas Cities.

There are two Kansas Cities, one in Missouri and one across the river in Kansas. But they are really only one city. The practical union of the two cities has progressed, because it was natural that it should; men own property in both cities; men sleep in Kansas City, Mo., and work in Kansas City, Kan., and men have their homes in Kansas City, Mo., and their places of business in Kansas City, Mo. Morning and evening the cars are crowded with workers of every grade going both ways. It is difficult to tell which crowd is the larger. Kansas City Star.

TOMMY BYRNE AND THE INDIANS.

How a War Was Averted by a Good Heart and a Perceptive Tongue.

Captain Thomas Byrne, or "Old Tommy," as he was affectionately called by all his associates, had at one time charge of the Hualpais, a tribe of Indians settled in northwest Arizona. Old Tommy, perhaps from his "deludherin tongue," had an almost miraculous ascendancy over the chiefs and head men of this tribe, and though his native eloquence was second only by the scantiest allowances of orations from the subsistence stores of the camp he was loved and trusted by these child-like allies. To hear him coaxing back a sulky warrior to good humor was something to be long remembered.

"Come, now," he has been heard to say, "shure, that is de matter wid yee! Have yee ever axed me for anythin that I didn't promise it to yee?" Yet Tommy's promises were always kept.

Suddenly one day the Hualpais, like a flash of lightning out of a clear sky, went on the warpath and fired on the agency buildings before leaving for their old stronghold in the canyon of the Colorado. No one knew the cause of their sudden treachery, and Tommy Byrne was one of those who realized how much it would cost Uncle Sam in blood and treasure if the outbreak were not stopped at once.

Without waiting for his spirited little horse to be saddled he threw himself across its back and swept out into the hills after the fugitives. When the Hualpais saw the cloud of dust coming they blazed into it, but Tommy was untouched and dashed gallantly up his horse white with foam, to the knot of chiefs who stood awaiting him.

At first the Indians were sullen, but they soon melted enough to tell the story of their grievances. The new agent had been robbing them in the most barefaced manner, and in their ignorance they imagined it to be Captain Byrne's duty to regulate all the affairs in his camp. They did not want to hurt him, but would let him go safely back, but for them there was nothing but the warpath. "Come back with me," said Tommy gently. "I will see that you are right."

Back they went, following that one unarmed man. Straight to the beef scales proceeded the officer, and in a few minutes he had detected the manner in which false weight had been secured by tampering with the poise. A Texas steer, which would not weigh more than 800 pounds stood at 1,700, and of course other articles followed in the same ratio.

Tommy seized upon the agency and took charge; the Hualpais were perfectly satisfied, and the agent left that night. Thus was a bitter war averted by the prompt action of a plain, unlettered man, who had no ideas about managing savages beyond that of treating them with kindness and justice.—Chicago Tribune.

Vegetable Diet for Epileptics.

Whether the theory of the explosion of nitrogen in the brain substance as the cause of epileptic seizure be true or not would appear quite certain, according to Dr. Ferguson, a practitioner of wide observation and experience in this specialty, that the malady is aggravated in the case of patients who are subjected to a nitrogenous diet—a fact which seems to have been confirmed by multiplied clinical instances and abundant experimentation.

Dr. Ferguson, therefore, acting on the strength of such a fact, states that he has subjected his epileptics to a strict vegetable diet, and not only this, but has wholly dispensed with the use of drugs. His method has given in his hands excellent results, especially in well marked cases of status epilepticus, the non nitrogenous vegetable diet alone doing better service than the bromides without diet restriction.—New York Tribune.

The Shah Averts a Speech.

No inconsiderable amount of amusement is derived from the perusal of real or supposed fragments of the account written by the shah of Persia of his adventures in Paris during the Universal exhibition. In one of these extracts there is a description of the visit paid to the museum of the Louvre by the oriental potentate. When Nazir-ed-Din was well inside the building, M. Larroumet, of the fine arts department, manifested every appearance of being about to make an official speech. "I fixed him with my eyes," the shah is reported to have written, "and, surveying him from head to foot, I said, 'Marche!' " "Because," said the pupil, "because," because, dear master, I feel that I don't 'yot really know how to sing." "My son," was the reply, "that is what none of us shall ever know on this earth; in the next world there may be more time. For when we are young we have the voice, but not the art, and when we are old we have the art, but not the voice."—Vernon Lee in Portmanteau Review.

Voice and Art.

"Why in the name of all the saints," asked the master, "have you come back to Bologna. You, the most accomplished singer in the world?" "Because," said the pupil, "because," because, dear master, I feel that I don't 'yot really know how to sing." "My son," was the reply, "that is what none of us shall ever know on this earth; in the next world there may be more time. For when we are young we have the voice, but not the art, and when we are old we have the art, but not the voice."—Vernon Lee in Portmanteau Review.

CUCUMBER and ELDER FLOWER CREAM.

Is not a cosmetic in the sense in which that term is popularly used, but a permanent skin conditioner. It creates a soft, smooth, clear, velvety skin, and by daily use gradually makes the complexion several shades whiter. It is a constant protection from the effects of sun and wind, and prevents sun-burns and freckles, and blackheads. It will not come from the face, but causes the face to better than soap and water, and the formation of wrinkles. It gives the freshness, clearness and smoothness of the skin that you had when a little girl. Every lady, young or old, ought to use it, as it gives a more youthful appearance to any lady, and that permanently. It contains no acids, powders or alkalis, and is as harmless as any cosmetic known to the skin as dew is to the flower. Price $1.00, state druggists and hair-dressers, or at Mrs. Graham's, where she treats ladies for all blemishes of the face and hair. Ladies at a distance will have the cream sent by letter. Send stamp for her little book "How to be Beautiful."

MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

The New Ballot Law Worked to Perfection.

The election for municipal officers passed off very quietly in Sonoma last Monday. Very little interest was taken by our people, as there was no particular issue at stake. There were four candidates for Trustee, with two to be elected. These were Henry Seipp, S. Schocken, Wm. Trudgen and L. Adler. For Treasurer, G. H. H. Cornelius and Chas. McHarvey were the opposing candidates, while for Marshal and Clerk respectively, there was no opposition to G. W. Sparks for the former office and Judge Breitenbach for the latter.

Of the ballots voted seven were rejected only. Four of these were stamped in the wrong places, two were marked with a pencil and two were scratched in the old manner. There were five single shots for S. Schocken for Trustee and two for Henry Seipp. Five tickets were spoiled by voters, two of these by one man. Taking it all in all the Australian ballot system proved a success in this place.

Following is the vote polled:

FOR THE INDEX-TRIBUNE.

A SONG FOR EASTER.

Bells of Easter ring you sweetest,
Far o'er field and dale;
Send your notes so clear and joyful,
Through this sunny vale.

While we all with cheerful faces,
And with one accord;
Lift our hearts with love o'erflowing,
To greet our "Risen Lord."

On this day are fairest flowers,
Lilies white as snow,
Placed within our Savior's temples,
Here on earth below.

And joyful songs to Heaven are borne,
Of praise and love,
That may, who knows? with others blend
Of choirs above.

While worshipping our "Risen Lord,"
Oh! let us pray,
That He may from our poor hearts cast
All sin away.

That true from any stain of earth,
They may ever be;
Filled with all high and holy thoughts,
Love and charity.

So that our good deeds and our prayers
May ever rise;
As incense pleasing to our Lord,
Even to the skies.

CELIA CARROLL.

Sonoma Valley, April 12, 1892.

THE HIGH SCHOOL ACCIDENT

The afternoon had just begun,
To put it short, 'twas just at one;
The boys they thought they'd have some fun
Down at the High School.

In the rear of the building there was a stair
Without foundation, all out of repair;
We were often told not to go there,
But off we broke the rule.

A coyote scalp to the school was brought,
To see the article each boy fought;
The gypper ran, but soon was caught
On the old back stairs.

A tug of war did then ensue,
Each struggled well to get a view;
Lo! suddenly the reckless crew
Were precipitated.

There was no time for them to vent
Their feelings as they downward went;
For swish, smash, crash they all were sent
Down to the ground.

"Oh, my side!" "Oh, gee, my back!"
"Oh, Lord am ary, what a whack!"
And Guinea's face turned blue and black,
As he crawled from the debris.

A rail smashed O. F. Campbell's lip,
"Ha! ha! my boy, you were too lip."
That rail gave you a terrible clip,
But the recoil broke the rail.

Harry Shaw did well nigh faint,
It made me laugh to see that quaint
Fellow acting like a saint,
His hand upon his side.

A scene no pen nor tongue can tell,
Was seen when Champlin feeling fell;
There he lay not far from the well,
Stretched out upon the grass.

Adrian ten Bosch got the worst,
But he didn't curse, nor scream, nor burst
Into tears, for he knew he durst
Not play pathetic.

The others they were pretty tough,
But though they were not handled rough,
I think they got quite enough
Of the old back stairs.

The neighbors all who heard the news,
Came flying out to save the boys,
In their great hurry forgetting the joys
Of after dinner naps.

The doctor came as quick as he could,
And fixed the boys just as he should;
Now he says they are quite as good
And fresh as ever.

Funeral of John Gibson.

The remains of the lamented John Gibson of Glen Ellen, arrived in Santa Rosa by the 11:30 Southern Pacific train on Saturday. They were met at the depot by the friends of the family and the following gentlemen who acted as pall bearers: Con Shea, Wm. Longmore, George Lewis and R. A. Thompson. The remains were accompanied by the widow of the deceased and other members of her family and those of Mr. George Guerne, her son-in-law. The body was temporarily placed in the vault pending preparation for final interment.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Safety in the Midst of Danger

This would seem a contradiction—is so, in fact, to the eye. But experience has proved its possibility. Take the case of the individual who dwells in a malarious region. A robust constitution is no certain defense against the dreaded chills. What is recorded testimony, covering a period little short of half a century, proves that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is precisely this. This continent does not limit the field where the medicine has proved its efficacy. In South America, the Isthmus of Panama, Mexico, everywhere in fact where malarious diseases take on its most obstinate and formidable types, the Bitters is a recognized specific in illimitable demand, and prescribed by physicians of repute. Patient, too, is it in disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, and against that destroyer, grippe. It improves appetite and sleep, neutralizes rheumatism and kidney complaints.

Last Saturday, says the Petaluma "Courier," we placed two reliable small boys at each of the plazas to keep tally of the teams that would drive into Petaluma during the day. They reported 216 teams—mostly one-horse arrangements—buggies, dogcarts, buckboards and the like—82 at the north and 134 at the center plaza. And without exception the drivers of these vehicles each brought along a box or so of butter or eggs, dried fruit or some other product, and took back an equal or greater value of merchandise of one kind or another. This is business.

He has been confined to his home all the week from his hurts, which are not serious.

The Glen Ellen Grange will give a grand picnic in Glen Ellen Park on Monday, May 5th. Many prominent people of this State, members of the order, will be present and participate in the festivities. Addresses will be delivered by Hon. C. P. Berry of Sutter county and E. W. Davis of Santa Rosa. There will be dancing, games and other amusements. A fine band of music has been engaged for the occasion. Glen Ellen Grange extends a cordial invitation to the people to attend. This picnic promises to be one of the most sociable affairs ever gotten up in this valley.

P. Balette and R. Quartaroli of this place have filed a complaint in the Superior Court of this County against Constable G. W. Sparks, F. Mattenecci and R. Vannucci for the unlawful removal of goods from plaintiffs store in this place a couple of weeks ago. The suit is the outcome of an attachment suit brought against L. Quartaroli by Mattenecci and Vannucci, merchants of San Francisco, whom it would appear seized the goods belonging to plaintiffs, under the mistaken idea that they were the property of L. Quartaroli. The chances are that they will have to pay for their mistake to the tune of $725 and costs, which plaintiffs are suing for.

A MOMENT OF HORROR.

Exciting Scenes at Weyl's Hall.

A Large Lamp Explodes and Scatters the Burning Fluid Broadcast.

On Friday night of last week while the Napa College Students were giving an entertainment in Weyl's Hall to a crowded house, a cry of "Fire" was raised.

At the same instant a lurid light was observed in the hallway at the head of the long flight of stairs, the only means of egress from the hall.

Immediately there was a panic among the audience, composed of men, women and children, some two hundred in number.

Women screamed in terror and many fainted, while a number of men, he it with shame, with the thought of their own hides only, made a wild rush to save themselves, knocking over frail ladies and small children in their precipitous flight to find a mode of egress from the hall.

Escaping by the only entrance door was out of the question and a rush was made for the door leading to a veranda on the south side of the hall.

This structure is quite frail and luckily after about ten or fifteen persons had succeeded in reaching the porch, the chairs and benches in the hall were crowded against the door by the panic-stricken people and stopped all egress from that quarter. Had this not happened the porch would have instantly been poked with excited people and would surely have given way and precipitated all hands to the ground below, a distance of twenty feet.

There were a few cool heads in the audience, however, and that is all that averted a dreadful calamity. These maintained their composure and mounting chairs and benches advised the audience to keep quiet, while J. Wadsworth, who occupied a seat near the door, stripped off his coat and fought the fire like a demon, using the garment to good advantage in smothering the flames. He was instantly joined by other brave men, who likewise threw off their coats and assisted him, and the fire was extinguished in less than five minutes after the lamp exploded.

During this time the wildest confusion prevailed among the audience who were cooped up inside the building, if we except eight or ten people who sat near the door. These, with a cry of terror, rushed through the only exit and escaped down stairs before the burning fluid had spread out and shut off escape from that quarter. Most of these fell in a heap at the foot of the stairs.

An alarm of fire was sounded from the engine house and the firemen with their apparatus were soon on the ground, but ere they reached the scene all danger had passed.

Had it not been for a number of brave-hearted men in the audience, who by their coolness and self-possession, prevented a general stampede, serious consequences would have followed.

INCIDENTS.

Jas. Carr, a fifteen-year-old lad, was one of the first to reach the porch, and had his hands badly lacerated in sliding down one of the supports of the same, which had been wound round with barbed wire to prevent mischievous boys from climbing the porch.

A lady well-known in this valley was seized by a gentleman just as she was in the act of leaping from a window. She had already mounted the casing and had her rescuer hesitated a moment she would have leaped to her death.

One man jumped from the porch and landing square on his feet escaped without a bruise.

The explosion was caused by a mischievous boy, who knocked the hanging lamp down with a lath, which upon coming in contact with the floor exploded with a loud report.

Little Julie Granice was the first person to escape from the hall. She wiggled through an excited crowd which blocked the exit, and reaching the lead of the stairs bounded to the street below as quick as a flash.

George Hunt, a member of the Napa College Band, ruined a brand new $25 overcoat, which he used in assisting to put out the flames from the burning oil. Every one in the audience could well afford to contribute a small mite to replace the garment, and we trust some one will see to it that he gets a new overcoat.

A number of San Francisco anglers visited Glen Ellen last Tuesday and were guests at the Merry Hotel. The party was composed of W. J. Geary, W. J. Coney, Jas. E. Field, Jas. Peterr, F. C. Hopkins, G. D. Bondeau. Some fine strings of trout were caught by the party.

THE SENATOR JONES

FARM.

A Desert Waste Converted Into Fields of Tall, Waving Grain.

What Has Been Wrought in This Valley by the Pless Dredger.

A visit to the reclaimed lands belonging to Senator John P. Jones, a few miles south of Sonoma, will convince the most sceptical of the success of the dredging operations carried on the past two years by W. B. Pless with the famous dredger Nevada, and the 5000 pound bucket attached to the 90-foot boom on the same.

Miles upon miles of levees have been constructed with almost a uniform height of five and a half feet above the natural lay of the land, which in itself presents one of the most successful pieces of reclamation in this State.

Last Fall seven or eight hundred acres of the newly reclaimed land was plowed and seeded to grain for the first time and the crop has made an astonishing growth, and what a few short months ago was a desert waste has been changed into fields upon fields of tall, waving grain that cannot be beat anywhere.

A visit to many of the grain fields in this and other sections of the State the past week shows the stand of grain on Senator Jones' tract to be truly remarkable. Nothing like it can be found anywhere at this time.

That these lands are the richest for agricultural purposes in the State has long been known, but there was no practicable method of reclaiming them without immense cost, except on a small scale, until the Pless dredger was invented. It remained for the inventive genius of Mr. W. B. Pless and the capital and enterprise of Senator John P. Jones to make these great changes in that part of our valley which at no distant day will convert thousands upon thousands of acres of dreary waste into beautiful fields of waving grain, prolific orchards and farms tilled by happy and contented families.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.

Narrow Escape from an Exploding Root Beer Bottle.

On Tuesday afternoon last while Mrs. H. H. Granice, wife of the editor of this paper, was working in her flower garden she came across a beer bottle lying among some shrubbery. Picking the bottle up she tossed it to one side. Immediately there was an explosion as loud as the discharge of a shot gun.

The bottle, which contained root beer, had been lying in the yard seven or eight months. As it struck the ground the concussion caused it to burst, and it was blown into fragments. One of the pieces of glass, about an inch long and half an inch wide, struck Mrs. Granice in the left eye. She fell to the ground as if struck by a bullet.

When assistance reached her a second after the explosion her face was covered with blood which flowed from a deep cut, which extended across the eye-lid and came within a hair's breath of penetrating the eye-ball.

The explosion immediately brought Mr. Granice and Johnnie McDowell to her relief and she was assisted into the house. Dr. Davis was summoned and responded immediately and sewed up the wound. He gave it as his opinion that it was a most fortunate escape, as had the glass penetrated the sixteenth of an inch deeper the eye sight would undoubtedly have been destroyed.

The explosion caused by the bursting bottle was so loud that it could be heard two or three blocks away. Fragments of the bottle were thrown from ten to fifty feet.

It Pays Making Good Wines.

We understand the firm of Wm. Hoelscher & Co. of San Francisco have bought of the estate of O. W. Craig all the white wines—about ten thousand gallons—consisting of Johannisberg, Riesling, Semillon and Franken Riesling, vintage 1889, made by D. D. Davison of this place, for the price of 27½ cents per gallon. It is known among wine men that this lot of wines are considered the very best of white wines ever made in the State, and Sonoma county may well be proud of having produced such fine wines, and more so as Wm. Hoelscher & Co. are going to have one of this wine exhibited at the World's Fair in Chicago and feature of carrying away a gold medal.

BAD BOYS.

A Number Arrested for Disturbing the Peace.

For some time past a number of urchins of this place, between fourteen and eighteen years of age, have made it a habit of disturbing entertainments and other public gatherings. It was a crowd of these mischievous boys that tipped over the coal oil lamp in Weyl's Hall on Friday night of last week, mention of which is made in another column, and came near causing loss of life and the destruction of the building.

On last Wednesday night a number of these boys disturbed an entertainment in Union Hall by tricks known only to mischievous urchins. The racket they created was almost unbearable, and at last R. v. Mr. Woodward, who was present, left the hall and drove the noisy crowd away. On the following morning he had three of them arrested, charged with disturbing the peace. The offenders were taken before Judge Cheney and pleading guilty were fined $5 each.

On Thursday more warrants were sworn out by Mr. Woodward and two other boys placed under arrest. They were taken before Judge Cheney and plead not guilty. Their trial has been set for next Wednesday.

It will be noticed that we have not given the names of the boys. The reason for this is that they have promised if their names are withheld from publication they "will never do it again." A second offense, however, will surely lead to giving of names, it matters not whose boy is involved.

The Truth of a Story.

We had been boys together in Mexico, and on one occasion had gone down to the island duck hunting. The ducks were there, but alas! they had all congregated in the center of a big pond, so far from the shore as to be out of gunshot.

Various plans were discussed for getting them, but none seemed feasible, till Dick, who was a great reader, broached one which he had seen in some encyclopedia or missionary report. He told how the Chinese would cut a hole in a pumpkin large enough to admit the head, scoop out the inside, cut a hole to see through, and, donning the pumpkin like a helmet, wade out into the pond, keeping the body under water. The unsuspecting ducks, seeing no danger in so harmless a thing as a floating pumpkin, would remain quiescent till the "heaven Chinese" could gather them by the legs and yank them under water.

With the divine faith of boyhood we deemed the scheme practicable, and as there were some pumpkins in a neighboring field proceeded to act upon our belief. As Dick could not swim I was chosen to do the "yanking" act, for, though the pond was generally shallow, there might be unsuspected holes. Clad in nature's garb, plus the pumpkin, I waded out, but the ducks perversely refused to act their part, as set down in the play. They did not fly, but arily kept such a distance that it would have needed the arm of a Brooding-nag to reach them. After an hour or so of futile effort, I waded ashore to find myself covered from head to foot with ravenous black leeches, and my back and shoulders burned raw by the sun, while Dick added insult to injury by answering that "nobody but a fool would believe such a story anyhow."—Forest and Stream.

The "Greasers" of the Rio Grande. It is difficult for people living in the eastern states to comprehend how the condition of affairs on the Rio Grande frontier could exist anywhere within the confines of the United States. The majority of those who live along the Rio Grande river, even on the Texas side, are very different from any other population in this country. It is an overlapping of Mexico into the United States, and the people, though they have been American citizens for more than forty years, are almost as much an alien race as the Chinese, and have shown no disposition to amalgamate with the other Americans. They take no interest in American politics. In Mexican affairs, however, they are deeply interested, and especially is this so in times of revolution and civil discord south of the Rio Grande river.

Few of them speak English, and the white people of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona along the border contemptuously call them "Greasers," and hold them in no higher esteem than they do Indians. In 1880 there were 43,000 of such people in Texas, and, with the exception of those about San Antonio, these "Greasers" are herdsmen and small farmers along the Rio Grande. They hold life very cheap, and do not count it a grievous crime to murder either in private quarrel or public brawl.—Harper's Weekly.

The Word "Fad." A Vermont correspondent suggests that the word "fad" is not modern, but is provincial English. In the Warwick dialect the word means a "whim," and in at least two of the dialects the word "faddy" is used, signifying "frivolous" or "whimsical." Another use of the word is to describe a person who is difficult to please in trifles, and in that connection appear the words "to fad," meaning to be busy with trifles. As would appear from our correspondent, the word has been in use among the humbler classes in England for some time. But how did the word get into current conversation and writing both in this country and in England? It seems to be comparatively new. The Fall Mall Gazette seems to doubt whether the English people are responsible for it, and is at a loss to account for the present common use of the word. If newspapers are any index, the word is more frequent in the east than the west, in the city than the country, in "society" than business or among students.—Boston Journal.

He Saw Her. Mr. Sliptongue—I have not met your wife. Is she here this evening? Mr. Hansome—Yes, but just at this moment she is engaged—over there at the piano. Mr. Sliptongue (with affected enthusiasm)—Ah, I see. She is that goddesslike beauty who is playing an accompaniment for that mountain of flesh who is singing. Mr. Hansome (stiffly)—My wife does not play. She sings.—New York Weekly.

Spain's Financial Condition. Spain has been steadily making a deficit for fourteen years past, and what is worse, seems to be making a bigger one each succeeding year. When a man makes as poor a financial success as Spain has done they wind him up, and most sensible persons will agree that a nation that cannot pay as it goes in time of peace ought to be treated likewise.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"German Syrup"

Asthma. "I have been a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing and inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand. When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup. I am confident it saved my life. Almost the first dose gave me great relief and a gentle refreshing sleep, such as I had not had for weeks. My cough began immediately to loosen and pass away, and I found myself rapidly gaining in health and weight. I am pleased to inform thee—unsolicited—that I am in excellent health and do certainly attribute it to thy Boschee's German Syrup. C. B. STICKNEY, Pictou, Ontario."
